ADRIARTICA is a journey, a challenge, it is an adventure, a set of gestures to communicate a clear message: the limits can be pushed forward, modified or even cancelled. This is the reason which drove Sandro Dutto, confined to a wheelchair from years, and Simone Chieragato to undertake this venture, departing from Venice to reach North Cape with two 3-wheel motorcycles. With their concrete example, they show how the will, supported by the spirit, can give valuable fruits. As ADRIARTICA is a normal trip for special people. It is a 40-day journey that touches 15 countries in a route of nearly 14,000 miles. The itinerary develops through Germany and Poland and then move on to the three Baltic Republics and Russia. Passing through St. Petersburg, the route continues north through the Russian region of Karelia to reach Murmansk. From here a short step to arrive in Norway and reach the halfway point at North Cape. On the return they travel along the fjords of Norway, passing also through Sweden, Denmark and the Netherlands, with a last stop in Paris before returning to Venice. During the journey, Sandro and Simone get in contact with the natural and artistic beauties of these places, gaining a deeper understanding in history, meeting new people and also finding many difficulties on their way... ADRIARTICA tells their story and it is the reportage of their extraordinary journey!
