Luigo is in trouble, he spent all his inheritance and is living in debt. He lives with his yoga obsessed brother, in Bologna where an eviction is imminent. His only friend Michaela helps him and has faith in him despite his bizarre fascination with identity games. With his own identity tied to banks and Private lenders he has decided to stage his own funeral. With the help of his brother and Michaela they find a dead immigrants body washed up on the beach and they bring it back to Bologna. When they return he is startled by the fact that there is something that will disrupt his plans.
