Beatrice, married to Sergio, is a very busy woman, she's a teacher and quite involved in volunteering as a pedagogic. However, she's also a woman who loves suffers and resists, a woman that never stops fighting and who focuses always on the future. She never asks for help and she's always up to help others, if she falls she always stands back. One day Beatrice discovers to have an invisible disease, which is inside of her and flows through her blood. It doesn't allow her to move, to smile, to be happy and it has difficult name to remember: Sjogren, the invisible disease, it's heavy like a rock inside for the rest of your life.
